A Glimmer of Growth for Grundy County

According to Crain's Chicago Business, the far western edge of the Chicago Metro area is adding residents again which includes Grundy County. Kendall County was the fastest-growing county in the country before the Great Recession and Kendall is leading the growth once again. Kendall County saw a 1.3% growth in residents in 2017 and Grundy County was second with 0.6%, followed by McHenry, Kane and, Will counties with 0.4%. Although the numbers aren't large, it is a step in the right direction, especially when the City of Chicago continues to lose its residents.

THE REGION'S MEAGER POPULATION GROWTH IS IN THE EXURBS

The state and the Chicago area continue to lose population, but the exurbs are growing again, albeit slowly. Just seven of 31 Illinois counties with 50,000 residents or more showed population gains last year. Kendall County has showed the strongest growth.
